

PROVIDENCE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Providence is a fellowship of faith-based people called to service by God through Jesus Christ. A vibrant Presbyterian congregation, located in Fairfax, VA, in the shadow of the nation's capital, Providence celebrates God's Love through joyful and stimulating worship, seeks God's Truth through formal education for all ages, serves God's World through a strong commitment to and involvement in mission, and shares God's Gifts through Worship, Education, Mission and active Fellowship. The church's programs offer the Providence family a solid foundation for the full witness of their Christian Faith.

J. Reilly Lewis has performed extensively as a keyboard artist, with a focus on organ and harpsichord, both at home and abroad. He is the founder and music director of the renowned Washington Bach Consort and the music director of the Cathedral Choral Society.

Danielle Talamantes, a native of the Washington, DC area, has quickly become one of the regions most sought after soprano soloists. Danielle recently debuted as Violetta in Verdi's La Traviata with Fremont Opera to rave reviews and fulfilled her debut contract this past spring with the Metropolitan Opera as Najade in Strauss' Ariadne auf Naxos.

Brad Sherrill in The Prophets draws from Old Testament texts he believes have an eerie resonance in today's world. Brad brings the texts to life with the assistance of powerful multimedia imagery, condensing the words of Isaiah, Jeremiah Ezekiel, Amos and Micah into a 90-minute, one-man dramatic presentation of the ancient messengers.

Poulenc Plus, an eclectic concert of choral, organ and orchestral works, with the Gloria by Francis Poulenc as the centerpiece, will also feature choral settings of three orchestral works: "Lux aeterna" (Light Eternal) based on Edward Elgar's Nimrod from the Enigma Variations; "Sicut cervus desiderat" (As the deer pants) based on the Adagio in G minor by Tomaso Albinoni; and Samuel Barber's own choral setting of his Adagio for Strings, using the "Agnus Dei" text (Lamb of God). A variety of other choral, organ and orchestral pieces will round out the program – a little something for everyone. The M&A Chorus and Orchestra will perform under the baton of Terry Stoneberg, with Jane Moore Kaye at the Lively-Fulcher pipe organ.
